

CONTENT & POSTING

The 1-Video-a-Week Content Engine

Create once, post all week. The batch-and-repurpose system that ends the daily blank page - with prompts that do the atomizing.

One hour of creation feeds a week of presence.

- 1 Batch: record ONE pillar a week in your own voice.
- 2 Atomize it into clips, a carousel, posts, quote cards, a meme, a newsletter.
- 3 Keep every piece in your voice, laddering to one message.
- 4 Queue across the week; lead on your most responsive platform.
- 5 Published = done. The system carries consistency, not your willpower.

That's the whole system. The rest of this guide walks each step, with copy-paste prompts you can run in one tap.

The deep walkthrough

1

Pick the pillar

One raw idea is enough. Don't polish - capture.

PROMPT · FIND MY PILLAR

Ask me 3 questions about what I know or care about this week, then propose 3 'pillar' ideas - each a single strong message worth a week of content. Pick the one with the clearest hook and tell me why.

Atomize the pillar

Turn one idea into a full week, every format.

PROMPT · ATOMIZE INTO A WEEK

Here's my pillar: [PASTE TRANSCRIPT OR IDEA]. Atomize it into a week of content, all in my voice and laddering to one message: a 60-sec video hook, a 6-slide carousel, 2 written posts, 3 quote-card lines, 1 meme concept, and a short newsletter. Keep each tight.

Write the captions

Hook first, reply-driving question last.

PROMPT · CAPTIONS PER PLATFORM

Write platform captions for this piece: [PASTE]. Facebook (warm), Instagram/TikTok (punchy + 5 hashtags), LinkedIn (value-framed), X (short). Each opens with a hook and ends with the SAME question to drive replies.

THE FLYWHEEL

Batch once. Atomize with the prompts. Queue it. One pillar = a week you didn't have to think about.
